International Counternarcotics OrganizationsSummary

Heightened awareness of the severity of the drug problem is prompting many nations to look beyond their own borders to international organizations in hope of developing a coordinated anti-drug strategy. Although such a strategy will not likely be realized any time soon, enhanced international cooperation is clearly a positive step toward making inroads on the narcotics problem. At this point, the United Nations Fund for Drug Abuse and Control (UNFDAC) is by far the most important international counternarcotics organization. With dramatic increases in its budget, largely the result of European contributions, UNFDAC is currently sponsoring about 100 antidrug initiatives in 35 developing countries. [REDACTED]

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: NSPG Meeting to Discuss UN Funding Issues, 8 September 1988

1. Attendees NSPG meeting on 8 September included the President, Secretary of State Shultz, Attorney General Thornburgh, Deputy Secretary of Defense Taft, Chairman, JCS Admiral Crowe, Deputy Secretary Treasury McPherson, DCI Webster, and Colin Powell.

2. The President opened the meeting with some general comments on the progress that had been made at the UN over the past year or so. General Powell indicated that this NSPG primarily was for information to prepare the President for making some key funding decisions. Secretary Shultz and Deputy Secretary Whitehead then provided an overview of the past several years' performance at the UN. The general assessment was that the trends are in the right direction from a US perspective. State indicated that Congress had put three conditions to the UN before it would approve the full payment of US funding. These conditions were:

- to reduce personnel;
- to make some progress in preventing countries from sending people to the UN and not putting them on permanent staff; and
- to reform the budget and the budget process.

3. State indicated some progress had been made in each of these areas and also recommended that the US do the following:

- pay its 1988 balance for funding the UN -- $44 million;
- pay fully and in advance $144 million that we will owe for 1989;
- tell the UN that the US will seek full funding in 1990;
- begin to pay up its arrearages -- we owe $500 million. The idea would be to pay this in installments; and
- fund our share of the base-keeping activities that amount to 31 percent of the total -- for 1989 this will be about $155 million.

4. There was some discussion around the table regarding our ability to fund the full amount of this commitment. Secretary Shultz argued that we had a treaty obligation to pay. DCI indicated that one thing to keep in mind was that the Soviets had publicly announced their intention to fully fund their commitment to the UN and to pay their arrearages -- the President said he "would wear old clothes when he made the presentation to the UN."

MEMORANDUM FOR THE HONORABLE GEORGE P. SHULTZ

The Director of Central IntelligenceADMIRAL WILLIAM J. CROWE, JR.
Chairman, Joint Chiefs of StaffSUBJECT: Decisions on UN Funding (U)

During two terms in office, this Administration has sought to change both the hostile political bias and the wasteful management and budgetary practices of the United Nations. Although reform is incomplete, progress is striking. Political and economic debate reflects a point of view more congenial to our own. Reforms have been enacted or are being enacted to give major contributors, including the U.S., a greater voice in setting budget and program priorities and to meet most of our other organizational concerns. Furthermore, the UN is undertaking new peacekeeping operations -- in Afghanistan, the Persian Gulf and, potentially, Angola-Namibia -- which directly serve important U.S. foreign policy interests. (C)

In light of these developments and reflecting discussion at the National Security Planning Group meeting of September 8, 1988, the President has taken the following decisions concerning funding for the United Nations and its peacekeeping operations, as well as for other international organizations. (S)

-- The President has signed the determination to release $44 million in FY-88 funds currently withheld pursuant to Section 702 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1988 and 1989. The Department of State should prepare the necessary determination for release of FY-89 funds restricted under the same legislation as appropriate early in the next fiscal year. (U)

-- The Department of State is directed to include in its FY-90 budget submission to Congress funding necessary to meet full U.S. obligations for all organizations in the UN system and for international peacekeeping activities to the extent permitted by law and overriding policy considerations. (C)

-- The Department of State is directed to prepare for the President's consideration a study regarding the desirability and feasibility of paying outstanding arrearages in U.S. contributions to the UN system. (C)

-- The Department of State is directed to develop, in coordination with the Department of Defense and the Office of Management and Budget, a legislative proposal for transmittal to Congress providing authority to the President to transfer funds from any account in the Department of Defense Appropriation Act, 1989, or the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriation Act, 1989, for U.S. contributions to new international peacekeeping operations. This contingency authority is sought to meet urgent requirements which might arise when Congress is not in session during the period prior to March 1, 1989. (S)
